Kunstencentrum STUK combines the renovation of an existing building with newly built infrastructure. The complex contains two theatre rooms, a music rehearsal room, a film studio, several practice and exhibition rooms and artist facilities. All facilities can be used simultaneously without mutual disturbance. The main theatre room breaks with the classical concept of a black box, it is designed as a large living room. The walls have a decorative concrete pattern. Ample daylighting is provided by a large window on stage that opens to the central patio of the complex.
